THE BRIEF

Our client wanted to make better use of the space they had and make sure there was an allowance for future expansion of their business. The client also wanted to modernise the offices and create a more energised look and feel. An improved breakout space was also required, as well as a more effective storage system.

THE SOLUTION

The team at Gravity produced a design which opened up the existing solid walls into a more functional open-plan space. Frameless glass walls were installed to maintain private offices and meeting areas without losing the light and spacious feel. A new, larger kitchen and breakout area was created and the storage condensed to a single, more accessible area. Replacement flooring, lighting, and a full redecoration, as well as furniture installation, completed the considerable changes to these offices.
